The Sky is the limit...

For over 100 years, UCSF School of Nursing, through our Master of Science and Doctoral programs, has prepared diverse nursing leaders who strive for excellence in clinical practice, education, research and public service. The School of Nursing is committed to the recruitment and graduation of persons representing populations underrepresented in the nursing profession. In the School of Nursing, on a dedicated graduate health science campus, you will find a welcoming environment for learning, with students from different backgrounds representing peoples from all over the world.

Our MS program offers over 20 master’s specialty options, including clinical specialties, health systems leadership, and health policy.
